The Golden Oriole (Oriolus galbula).—This gloriously coloured bird visits the British Islands in the spring, and winters in Africa. The note of the Oriole is very rich and flute-like. Its nest is unlike any other European bird's. It is placed in, and hung from, a fork in a branch, and is made of bark, wool, and grass. The eggs are pinkish-white, spotted with brown, and are from four to five in number.
